

2006-2007

Places, Peoples, and Spatial Practices

How can we turn the spaces in which we spend our lives into places where we can truly live our lives?

To explore how people engage with places and how places engage people, this programming series brings together scholars representing many fields. Participants include faculty from the arts and humanities, such as architecture and literary studies, as well as faculty from fields such as agriculture, community and regional planning and math. We invite you to participate.

September 14

Julie Ellison
University of Michigan

Place Work, Piece Work, Public Work:
Reorganizing the Humanities
Reception: Memorial Union, South Ballroom 6:25 p.m.
Lecture: Memorial Union, Sun Room 7:30 p.m.

October 5

William Cronon
University of Wisconsin at Madison

Space, Time, and Storytelling in the Making of an American Place
Memorial Union, Sun Room 8:00 p.m.

October 25

Mary Swander
Iowa State University

Spirit and Food
Memorial Union, Great Hall 7:00 p.m.

November 7

Minh, Tho Fullilove
Columbia University

How Tearing Up City Neighborhoods Hurts America
Memorial Union, Great Hall 8:00 p.m.

January 30

Symposium
Iowa State University

Mapping Territories: Dialogues on Places, Peoples, and Spatial Practices
Memorial Union, Pioneer Room 8:00 a.m. - 8:00 p.m.

February 22

Michael Martone
University of Arizona

Racing in Place: A Reading
Memorial Union, Pioneer Room 7:00 p.m.

March 29

Christine Boyer
Purdue University

Urban Operations
Memorial Union, Sun Room 7:30 p.m.

Co-sponsors: Research Program and Committee on Learning (funded by ISU) from 2006 University plans and announced on the basis of space, color, time, and place. Material design, design, architecture, graphic design, and other related disciplines, or other as a U.S. sponsor. Images can be directed to the Journal of Social Architecture and Design, 2006 (December 2006), 111-122, 2007.