The Iowa Native Plant Society is proudly offering this book edited by INPS board member, Connie Mutel. You can pre-order a copy and it will be shipped to you as soon as it is available.

The book has twenty-five essays covering a comparison of the 2008 floods with earlier floods, the response to the 2008 floods, and techniques for forecasting floods. Possible causes of the 2008 floods and of flooding in general are addressed, and the costs and damaging effects. The book ends with ideas for managing future floods.

Publication date for A Watershed Year is expected to be in March of 2010.

Profits from these sales will be used by INPS for the INPS educational small grants. Types of educational projects supported:

- Research that will contribute to conservation, appreciation and increased knowledge of Iowa’s native flora
- Training and education that achieve the same ends.
